

Sustainable Development Goals Public Art Project Map

Bringing awareness to the U.N. Sustainable Development Goals through public art in Philadelphia

SDG Work is Granted

Our SDG campaign strives to bring awareness to the importance of each goal and encourage the community to continue their efforts towards the betterment of society. For every SDG artwork, $3,000 is donated to a local non-profit in Philadelphia as they continue their efforts towards benefiting the community. Each SDG sponsor provides GPA with a non-profit that best reflects their chosen SDG goal. In recent unveilings, GPA has granted donations to Philabundance, We Love Philly, and the Schuykill Center for Environmental Education. As the campaign comes to completion, a total of $51,000 will have been granted to non-profits throughout Philadelphia. We thank our numerous sponsors, partners and collaborators for their support on this project.

17 Reasons to Support Our SDG Public Art Project

Global Philadelphia Association has brought the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) global campaign home to Philadelphia - the United States one and only World Heritage City. GPA understands and emphasizes that art is a powerful conductor which sparks mindful conversations and action. As you walk through the Philadelphia neighborhoods, there is a need to understand and address prevalent issues that align with all 17 Sustainable Development Goals, such as poverty, peace, justice, gender equality, and reduced inequality.

GPA has begun its mission to translate each SDG goal through commissioned artwork by renowned Philadelphia painters. Within the next few years, 17 neighborhood walls will be brought to fruition for each SDG goal. Additionally, for every SDG artwork completed, a local Philadelphia non-profit organization will receive a donation. In response, each of our sponsors has chosen an SDG goal that embodies their commitment to eradicating pressing issues and aiding in the sustainable growth of Philadelphia.
