State of the Port – Address and Luncheon

A region's ability to compete in today's global economy is dependent on its transportation infrastructure, services and systems.

The State of the Port Address and Luncheon is your opportunity to gather with the local port community and learn of the latest global and regional port developments affecting your business growth. This event is organized by the World Trade Center of Greater Philadelphia (WTCGP) and the World Trade Association (WTA) of Philadelphia, Inc.

- Get the latest trade route intelligence and industry trends
- Hear how industry trends will affect your supply chain
- Network with key port, terminal and logistics executives

The keynote presentation titled, "Dynamics of Shifting Logistics Patterns" will be given by Jeff Sweeney, Vice President of Martin Associates. Martin Associates is an economic consulting firm with over 20 years experience assessing economic impacts to the world's transportation systems, including economic, planning and marketing studies for seaports in the United States, Asia, Europe and South America. Mr. Sweeney is a specialist in economic impact analysis of seaports and airports, and has conducted studies for the Ports of Philadelphia, Wilmington, Baltimore and more. Hear insights on the future of global transport as it adjusts to the global economic crisis, larger vessels, and increased environmental and security concerns.

Dennis Rochford, President, The Maritime Exchange for the Delaware River and Bay, will provide an update on key legislative, regulatory, funding and other issues impacting the port community. The Maritime Exchange for the Delaware River and Bay, a not-for-profit trade association, is dedicated to promoting and encouraging commerce on the Delaware River and Bay.

Sponsorship opportunities are available: Receive complimentary tickets and an opportunity to advertise your organization to the region's international business community. Visit our website for details about sponsorship opportunities.
