

Brauhaus Schmitz

718 South St.
Philadelphia, PA 19147
(267) 909-8814
www.brauhauschmitz.com

Brauhaus Schmitz might be known for its bratwurst and extensive list of German ale, but it's also bringing something else to South Street: soccer.

With numerous TVs placed strategically around the restaurant, there isn't a bad seat in the house, and you won't miss a second of the game. Brauhaus Schmitz is so into soccer that it even has a bus to take you to every Philadelphia Union game for only $25 a person.

Fado Irish Pub

1500 Locust St.
Philadelphia, PA 19102
(215) 893-9700
www.fadoirishpub.com

Fado Irish Pub is a popular spot year-round for soccer games. The restaurant usually turns the World Cup into an event and its central location in the city makes for a fun time.

Fado has many TVs and quite a few different spots to sit and enjoy a brew, some Irish pub fare and a game or two. Check its website for game times. It also has monthly bus trips to Philadelphia Union games.

The 700

700 N. 2nd St.
Philadelphia, PA 19123
(215) 413-3181
www.the700.org

The 700 is the ideal place in Northern Liberties to watch soccer. In fact, it even started its own soccer team, the Philly Soccer Firm, and the bar invites all people to join them at the Northern Liberties Recreation Center on Tuesday nights from 7:30 p.m. to 9 p.m. to play the game. "Footy on the Telly," as it is called here, shows all of the best soccer action and, for game times, you can check its chalkboard or sign up for its e-mail chain. It doesn't serve food, but it has a humongous bottle list with more than 80 varieties, 12 drafts and an impressive liquor collection. Head upstairs for some late night dancing following the game.

Tir Na Nog

1600 Arch St.
Philadelphia, PA 19103
(267) 514-1700
www.tirnanogphilly.com

Tir Na Nog is an official sponsor and big supporter of the Philadelphia Union. It always has soccer games on and even opens early for matches. Numerous TVs of all shapes are found around the bar and for big events like the World Cup, it has a large protection screen that drops down for your viewing pleasure. Tir Na Nog serves traditional Irish fare (beer battered fish and chips, shepherd's pie), but also puts its own modern twist on food to create delicious "pubwiches" and entrees. The chef also creates what is called the "52 menu," which is a different menu each week. Drink and food specials change daily.
